Introducing, today's Color of the Day: Resonant Blue! More specifically, Sherwin Williams SW6954.

Are you looking for ideas on how to use 'Resonant Blue' in a design? I'm on the look-out for projects that include this vigorous shade. Here's what I've found so far...

Just one small 'Resonant Blue' accent wall is all it takes to liven up an open living area. This color works great with light, natural wood tones...

Oh, how I love the serenity of this white bathroom design with light woods and a multi-toned blue (resonant blue included) shower partition...

Always get samples! Here's why: The 'Color of the Day' posts are intended to provide design inspiration. I select projects and products for each 'Color of the Day' post based on the color my eye sees in the photographs. It can be extremely difficult to render color with 100% accuracy when taking photographs, especially of interior spaces. The same color can also appear entirely different in different lighting conditions. For these reasons, the actual color of the projects or products may not be an actual match to the 'Color of the Day'. Always review actual samples from the product manufacturer before making final purchases.
